Springfield Missouri’s David Zeszutek teams up with award-winning journalist and author Kendall Bell to tell the story of race car builder and driver with “Larry Phillips: NASCAR’s Only Five-Time Winston Racing Series Champion; Master Of The Short Track.”

“Larry Phillips is the only driver that I’d pay to watch race!”
—Mark Martin, NASCAR driver

“He taught me how important it was to know your car. He taught me a lot about racing.”
—Rusty Wallace, NASCAR driver

“He’d build you a race car and then he would beat you. If you didn’t like that ... he’d beat you again. I mean you were going to get beat!”
—Ken Schrader, NASCAR driver

“... I thought Larry was a god. He was so good they put a bounty on him.”
—Kenny Wallace, NASCAR driver and Speed TV commentator

“Larry taught me you could leave the track with money.”
—James Ince, Larry Phillips’ former crew chief

“Dynasties are a major part of sports history. ... Larry Phillips has become a dynasty in the Winston Racing Series.”
—Dennis Huth, NASCAR vice-president of corporate communications
